

COURTS & JUSTICE

PRODUCT | ODYSSEY PUBLIC ACCESS

Imagine how much time and money court offices could save if citizens had free and easy access to public information. Sheriff, criminal, and civil hearing records should be available to the public, but it can be difficult to organize and offer this information effectively to citizens.

Harnessing the Web for Fast and Easy Public Access

Odyssey Public Access makes it easy for judicial offices to provide citizens with quick and easy access to courts and justice information. With Odyssey Public Access, a variety of information stored within the Odyssey Suite can be available for public access—right through the Internet or each district's intranet. Judicial offices simply link their Odyssey Public Access Web site from their home page, so citizens have a clear and direct path to the court and justice records they need. From sheriff bond and jail records, to criminal and civil case and hearing records, citizens can search for and retrieve vital court and justice information—any time and anywhere.

For offices that often receive inquiries from bond companies, attorneys, or many other agencies, Odyssey Public Access saves time and helps court offices provide a much needed service to the community. At Tyler, we enable the public sector to be more efficient, more accessible, and more responsive to the needs of citizens.

Configurable to the Needs of Court Offices

Tyler's court and justice products are designed to fit the needs of any size court or justice office—that's why Odyssey Public Access is flexible and easily configurable. Don't settle for a cookie-cutter Web site—with Odyssey Public Access, users decide what and how information is displayed.

- Change the site header and image to be office-specific
- Design the launch page to office specifications while ensuring easy user navigation
- Add a site hit counter to track citizen access
- Update general/office information easily whenever necessary
- Add news briefs and headlines to announce events in the court district or office; list changes to local or national legislation; or even add trial and hearing information
- Address common citizen questions or concerns with a tailored "Frequently Asked Questions" (FAQs) section

Plus, users have complete control over the menu options on their Public Access site. Completely configurable, users can choose to include HTML, literal text, and/or links to external Web sites—so each court office decides where and how users navigate to specific site sections or records.

With Odyssey Public Access, important court and justice information is always at citizens' fingertips.