

COURTS & JUSTICE

PRODUCT | ODYSSEY SUPERVISION

Pre-trial and probation work often adds up to more time and frustrations, than actual court hearings and trials. These offices must be able to track everything from party and case identification, to forms processing and financial activity—quickly, easily, and with the confidence that all information is accurate and up-to-date. Pre-trial and probation offices also need customizable reports suitable for in-court presentations. But where can one find a comprehensive system that does it all?

Why Choose Odyssey Supervision?

Odyssey Supervision is a comprehensive and tightly integrated pre-trial and probation management system. There's no need to use multiple systems to track and modify all pre-trial and probation information. From document imaging to financial management and reporting, to supervisory functions and Microsoft® Word forms processing—Tyler's Odyssey Supervision does it all.

- Modify and search extensive party records
- Enter multiple supervision records for decreased redundancy
- Track probationer's assignments for scheduling assistance
- Use features shared with court clerks for easy information sharing

What's more, Supervision is fully integrated with Odyssey Case Manager and Financial Manager so users from the probation department, clerk's office, and more can access the same up-to-date information. Data is never redundant or misplaced.

Forms and Reporting

With Odyssey Supervision, users can create customizable reports and forms through Microsoft Word. An extensive list of tokens is available so users can enter any and all relevant information to a party or case. And, it's in a format court officers already know how to use.

Reports are available for supervision, cash management, financial activity, and job processing. What's more, Odyssey Supervision can memorize fields for each report that a user sets, eliminating the need to specify information for the same report more than once. Users save time and get custom reports that read the way they want them to.

Manage Party and Case Information with Ease

Organized management of case and party information is crucial for the effectiveness and efficiency of judicial offices. Without it, users run the risk of redundancy, misinformation, and critical facts that are just plain missing.

Party identification is easy with Odyssey Supervision. Quickly create multiple entries for additional lookup names, addresses, phone numbers, email addresses, flags, and more, or modify information already entered into the system. Plus, party information extends to relationships, institutions, and places of employment, so data linking is easy.

Odyssey Supervision includes a convenient case tab for maintaining all case information—assigned officer and caseload, case supervision terms, case style, case status, charges, flags, and victims involved. All relevant information is contained in one logically organized and easy-to-use area, so users don't waste time searching for critical data or entering redundant data. Plus, users can view case financial balances, gaining a comprehensive view of each case that is crucial to efficient supervision.
